Self-Service Access to Trusted Data Through the Zaloni Data Platform

The Zaloni Data Platform (ZDP) provides the foundation for digital transformation success. ZDP is a unified self-service data platform that operationalizes the entire data pipeline from data source to data consumer. ZDP delivers a production-ready data lake that can be deployed in hybrid, cloud or multi-cloud environments. The platform operationalizes data management and eliminates data silos for centralized management and governance of all enterprise data sources, working with your existing infrastructure for an integrated big data architecture and streamlined data stack. ZDP delivers a unified data supply chain that provides business users self-service access to trusted data, delivering fast time-to-value at scale.
